COURSE DESCRIPTION

FS 230 Forensic Sciences (3)

Survey of scientific methods applied to the collection, analysis and preservation of physical evidence as it is used from the crime scene to the courtroom; quality assurance, ethics, professional practice.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Forensic science is the natural science branch of the justice system that is concerned with interpreting physical evidence. Investigations proceed by using physical evidence and testimonial evidence to reconstruct past events; victims, suspects, and witnesses provide testimonial evidence. While forensic science is used to resolve civil, criminal, and regulatory matters, this course will focus on criminal investigation. Not surprisingly, forensic science comprises several disparate fields of study and the aim of this course is to provide an introduction to the use of physical evidence in the justice system.

Each student will finish this class with the ability to:

- Define the role of forensic science in civil and criminal investigations (Program Learning Outcome 3)
- Identify and define the various quality assurance strategies in the forensic sciences, including the legal system, ethical conduct, accreditation, and certification (Program Learning Outcome 2)
- Identify the value of physical evidence in a criminal investigation (Program Learning Outcome 3)
- Interpret the data generated from commonly used techniques to analyse physical evidence (Program Learning Outcome 4)
