Course Requirements:

Readings

Multiple readings will be assigned each week to frame our discussion in class. It is vital that the deadlines are followed so that there is genuine class discussion and an opportunity for peer review and learning. The readings will come primarily from the assigned course texts; however, there will be occasions in which additional readings will be required.

Assignments

Students will participate in online discussions each week based on the assigned readings, and complete the signature assessment at the end of the course. The specifics of these assignments are outlined on the following pages.

Collegiality & Professionalism

We will create an open environment where diverse opinions, viewpoints, and perspectives are appreciated and respected. As we perfect the art of teaching, we should be conscious of the fact that our craft can (and should) be approached from multiple perspectives.

Course Communication

Email is the best way to reach me with questions about course assignments or policies. I will answer all emails by the next school day (usually within 24 hours, though weekends may take longer).

Grading:

Assignments should be turned in on the due date noted in the syllabus or otherwise indicated in class; late assignments will result in a loss of points and will negatively impact your grade in the course.

Letter grades for the course will be determined by the following formula:

Course Overview	20 Points
Initial Discussion Posts (x10)	100 Points
Response to Classmates / Professor (x10)	100 Points
O&P Reflections (x2)	50 Points
Graduate Analysis Paper: Social Justice Education	50 Points
Unit Plan Concept	100 Points
Total:	420 Points

Letter grades are defined as follows:

A (420-378 points)	B (377-336 points)	C (335-294 points)	F (293-0 points)
--------------------	--------------------	--------------------	------------------

Note: Education majors need to earn a grade of "B" or better.

Course Overview

See Canvas for details.

Class Discussions (Due Every Week)

You will participate in one online discussion thread each week. These discussions are the central component of the course and participation is required. The purpose is not to prove that you have completed the reading and they are not simple summarization exercises to earn course credit. Instead, the discussion boards are our link as a community of scholars. They are a space to explore the texts, to ask questions, to challenge assumptions – ultimately, they are a place to grow as learners and as teachers. Please give these discussions the respect they deserve and check in frequently for updates. The success of the course rests on the quality of these discussions.

Your initial response to each prompt is due by 11:59pm every Thursday. The initial responses should be a minimum of 300 words, cite the assigned texts (including page numbers), and be free of spelling and grammatical errors. A rubric for this assignment can be found below.

You are also required to respond to at least one of your classmates by 11:59pm every Sunday. Responses should be a minimum of 300 words and must advance the conversation (e.g. ask a question, challenge a viewpoint, build on an argument).

Discussion responses will be graded within one week of submission. Please check Canvas for feedback on your discussion posts and incorporate this feedback into your future posts.

O&P Reflection

This semester you are expected to complete a minimum of 10 hours of O&P. Remember, O&P stands for Observation and Participation. So, don't just sit in the back of the room watching, get involved! Ask your cooperating teacher what you can do to help. The extent to which you will be able to participate will vary by school, so I'm not going to be prescriptive in this assignment. However you can participate works for me, as long as you are participating!

Based on your time in the classroom, you will write two 300-word reflection describing a key moment or observation related to the concepts presented in this course. Your reflection must relate to, draw upon, and reference the assigned readings from the course. A rubric for this assignment can be found on our course Canvas page.

Graduate Analysis Paper

For this assignment, you will conduct a more in-depth analysis the concept of social justice education. This assignment is not as formal as a traditional research paper, but I would like to see a more thorough examination than might appear in you weekly reflection posts. I have included the minimum length requirements as a guide. Please review the syllabus linked to this assignment before submitting to ensure that you earn full credit.

- Part 1 - Check for Understanding (1 page)
Hackman outlines five essential components of social justice education: content mastery, tools for critical analysis, tools for social change, tools for personal reflection, and an awareness of multicultural group dynamics. In Part 1 of your essay, I would like you to summarize each of these five areas. Keep these summaries short - no more than 1-2 sentences each - but make sure that you capture why each area is important for social justice education.
- Part 2 - Synthesis (1-2 pages)
Given what you learned from the Hackman article, how would you define social justice education in your own words? How does this align with the excerpts you read from the Characteristics of Marianist Universities?

- Part 3 - Application (1 page)
What do these ideas mean for the curriculum you will develop for your own classroom? Do you foresee challenges in adopting a social justice pedagogy? If so, how might you overcome those challenges?

Social Justice Unit Concept

For this assignment, you will develop a unit concept that explicitly demonstrates your engagement with the ideas, discussions, readings, and other texts we have discussed in this course. A unit concept is a “work-in-progress version” of a complete unit plan. Although the unit concept is only in skeletal form, the ideas, strategies, and resources are no different from a unit implemented in a classroom. Your work could be a variant of existing products or it could be a new unit that you have designed from scratch. The unit concepts should be suitable for a secondary-level classroom, but you are free to focus on the grade of your choice.

You will begin by selecting a social justice issue that you would like to include in your classroom. The list below provides some examples, but you are free to choose any social justice issue that you find compelling. Remember, your unit should be grounded in your discipline.

Gender Equality	Immigrant Rights	Minority Rights
Climate Change	Human Rights	Voting Rights / Enfranchisement
(dis)Abilities	Socioeconomic Issues	Workers’ Rights / Labor Rights
LGBTQ Rights	Religious Freedom/Equality	Indigenous Peoples’ Rights

Your paper should be approximately 5 pages long, double-spaced, with 12-point font, and 1-inch margins. It should be divided into three sections, guided by the following questions:

- Concept: What is the social justice concept you plan to teach? What are the essential questions or enduring understandings related to the concept? What grade level and student population are you aiming to teach in this lesson? (e.g. 10th grade / ELL / Lower-SES) This section should be written in narrative form (1-2 pages, double spaced).
- Rationale: How does teaching this concept address the hidden and/or null curriculum in students’ current education? (i.e. What is missing from the traditional curriculum and how does this lesson address that gap?) What sparked your interest in pursuing this subject/theme? Why is this an important concept for students to learn? This section should be written in narrative form (1-2 page, double spaced).
- Articulation of Concept: What learning objectives will be addressed in this unit? What instructional strategies ought to be used to teach this concept? What resources would you employ? How might you assess students’ understanding, skill attainment, or change of disposition? This section can be in outline/bullet form (1-2 pages, double spaced).

A rubric for this assignment can be found on our course Canvas page.
