Introduction to Philosophy Survey of Problems

Chaminade University of Honolulu -- Tripler AMC PH 100-30. Saturdays, October 1 to December 12, 2001, 8 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. Instructor: Robert Buss (Phone: 528-4067, home)

Introduction to Philosophy: Survey of Problems -- An examination of the role, themes, arguments, and discursive styles that characterize philosophy as an intellectual discipline. Traditional and critical theories from Western and Eastern philosophy will be considered.

Text: -- Exploring Philosophy: An Introductory Anthology (Oxford University Press, 2000) -- edited by Steven M. Cahn.

-- There will also be occasional handouts and study aids.

Organization of Course and Basis for Grading

The course will be divided into units, with readings from primary and secondary sources from key figures in the history of Western philosophy. Occasional references will be made to Asian and non-Western philosophy, however this material will not be covered on the exams unless students choose to incorporate such ideas into their responses to essay questions. A mid-term exam (in-class) and final exam (take-home) will cover the entire range of topics. Class participation and special written assignments -- home work and in-class projects -- will count toward your final grade.

Your final grade will be determined as follows --

- Midterm Examination (in-class on Nov. 10)
- Final Examination (take-home) 45 percent of final grade The final exam will be given out on Nov. 24 and will be due on Dec. 8.
- Class participation and attendance, 10 percent of final grade special in-class assignments and exercises

45 percent of final grade

"People would rather die than think... and most do." (Bertrand Russell)

"Arguments, like men, are often pretenders." (Plato)

"The philosopher's treatment of a question is like the treatment of an illness." (Ludwig Wittgenstein)
